BIG DIRIGIBLE SAILING TO SAN DIEGO MOORING

Plan Great Aerial Show Saturday In Honor of Successful Flight

BULLETIN LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Sentinel, Ariz., ninety-four miles east of Yuma, at 10:24 a. m. (mountain time), the Southern Pacific railroad announced.

BULLETIN PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah missed hitting historic Picoacho peak by fifteen feet just before daylight today, according to a radiogram intercepted by the American radio relay league representative, here. Picoacho peak rises out of the desert like a huge finger with a sharp point at the summit towering several thousand feet. The dirigible was proceeding through the clouds, the intercepted message stated, when the peak loomed in front, and only prompt action on the part of the crew prevented a catastrophe.

BULLETIN LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—The Shenandoah passed over Gila, Arizona, 120 miles west of Tucson, Arizona, at 9:27 a. m., mountain time, according to Southern Pacific officers here.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 10.—The U. S. S. Shenandoah is expected to reach here early this evening, it was announced today by Captain T. T. Craven, commandant of the naval air station.

"The Shenandoah, though she might be able to arrive ahead of her present schedule, will probably wait until about sunset before reaching here," Captain Craven said. "By mooring at dusk the big ship will be able to do so without losing a great deal of gas, because of the coolness of the air. In preparation for the Shenandoah's arrival 300 bluejackets will be on hand to help moor her when she reaches here."

Big Aerial Show Captain Craven also announced that everything was in readiness for the aerial show to be staged tomorrow in honor of the Shenandoah, which is scheduled to leave tomorrow night after being refueled and other new supplies laid in.

Weather conditions here were declared ideal. The dawned cool and crisp with a soft wind blowing in from the ocean, but this was declared not to be strong enough to hamper the big ship.

Tucson Gives Greetings As Craft Sails Over City

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Sailing majestically over this city just after daybreak, the big dirigible Shenandoah, en route to San Diego, was given a rousing welcome.

The giant airship was sighted over the city at 6:35 a. m. (mountain time).

WIDELY KNOWN POET GIVES TALK

James W. Foley Says Render World Valuable Service, Be Happy In Task

James W. Foley, nationally known poet and philosopher, lectured at the luncheon of the Glendale Optimist club today noon, discussing the problems with which citizens of the country are today confronted. His talk was interspersed with wit and humor.

The Optimist club, on motion of S. S. Gilhuly, voted unanimously to send a letter of condolence to the relatives of Paul Burks, who died here yesterday, following a recent operation.

HOME TOWN TROPHY TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Peter Hanson Makes Address In Which He Outlines Charms of Glendale

Presentation of the Fred E. Reed cup, known as the home town trophy, will be made tonight in the main dining room, Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, headquarters for the twentieth annual convention of the California Real Estate association, and Peter Hanson, president of the Glendale Realty Board, made a strong bid for it.

Mr. Hanson delivered his five minute talk last night at the fourth annual home town contest luncheon. His address was as follows:

"Land of Romance! The forty-niner blazed a trail across. The Mission-Founder pushed on and on another. Padre and pioneer joined hands as the first realtors, tapped the springs, and the poppy-strewn, mountain-fringed desert bloomed into romantic statehood—California. And her fairest bloom she called Glendale, the 'Fastest Growing City in America.'"

"I come not to herald my city; her fame has been proclaimed. I sound no call to carry on; nature's handiwork has made her destiny secure. Tucked away among the orange groves, snuggled into the nooks of the 'Green Verdugo Hills,' be-sentinelled with towering mountains, her superb scenic setting challenges admiration, and the stranger comes in to abide.

Sunshine and Health "Her location and environs bethoken God's favor. Above the fogs, she revels in sunshine and health. For her background Big Bear and Arrowhead, mountain trails and retreats; before her metropolitan Los Angeles, brimming with culture and art; at her feet the rich San Fernando valley with the twenty million dollar crop; be-flanked by her far-famed sister cities, Hollywood and Pasadena; just beyond, the grand old Pacific, whose balmy breezes temper a perfect climate, while a network of pavements lends proximity to all.

"She has sponsored the call of the Better City; beautiful homes where motherhood is exalted; stately churches; for her inspiration; unsurpassed school system; colleges and universities at her door; splendid hospitals and sanitariums, clubs, parks and playgrounds. One automobile to every five persons; three hundred electric trains daily, with ample transportation and portal connections. Efficient government under city management; municipally-owned light and water, affording low taxes.

Plenty of Prosperity "Her abounding resources compel attention. Liquid gold from near-by districts, bringing $260,000,000 annually to the city.

Husband Held In Death Of Bride of 13 Days

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10.—Arrested by his own father, Lester Kahl, 24-year-old son of Deputy Sheriff E. A. Kahl of Shipman, was being held today in jail with a net of gruesome evidence tightly drawn about him as the slayer of his pretty thirteen-day-old bride, Margaret.

While Sheriff John H. Russell was preparing for an emergency in case the high feeling might lead to an attempt to lynch young Kahl, a coroner's jury was being sworn in to hold an inquest over the bullet-riddled body of the bride. It is charged Kahl shot his bride while out hunting, then buried the body.

'Baby' Manager Of Winners

Fans, meet Stanley Harris. He is the manager of Washington's team, the winner of today's game with New York, and, it follows, the winner of the world series, taking four of the seven games played. Harris is only 29. Before the series started he predicted it would take six or seven games to decide. Harris hammered out a homer in today's twelve-inning battle.

Strike two, called. Foul, strike three, swung. Young fanned. Kelly up. Strike one, swung. Kelly out, Taylor to Judge. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Crowds Hold Up Traffic as News Gives Ball Score

Traffic on South Brand boulevard in front of The Glendale Evening News was virtually at a standstill during the progress of the final game of the world series this afternoon, by crowds receiving a report of the game given from The News office, play by play, right after the play was made in Washington.

The Evening News, of course, was the only newspaper in Glendale where the fans got real service. This newspaper gave the large crowd that gathered outside its office a detailed account of the game with all the promptness of a big cosmopolitan newspaper, and its editor was complimented many times for its excellent service to the Glendale public.

It was estimated that there were more than 3,000 persons in the crowd in front of The Glendale Evening News office to "see" the seventh game. It required the services of two motorcycle officers and several policemen to make lanes for autos, cars and pedestrians.

As the game went into extra innings, the interest of the fans increased. Cries greeted every play. It was a big day for The Glendale Evening News—the ONLY newspaper in Glendale to give the fans real service.

FANS BECOME DELIRIOUS AS SENATORS PUT OVER RUN IN TWELFTH INNING

Walter Johnson, On Eve of Retirement From Big League, Gets Credit for Victory; Harris Hammers Out Homer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Washington Senators added the blue blood of aristocracy to the red blood of unquestionable gameness by winning the championship of all baseball this afternoon. They earned that royal honor by beating the Giants in the seventh and final game of the world series before a wildly delirious home town crowd of 38,000 in a manner that only true royalty could duplicate.

They came from behind to tie the score with an eye-filling rally in the eighth and won out in the twelfth when McNeely's single took a trick bound over Lindstrom's head, Ruel scoring from second base.

Strangely enough, Ruel should have been retired on a foul to Gowdy before, but the catcher's feet became mixed up with his mask and he dropped the ball. Then Ruel doubled to left. The great crowd fairly tore up the pennant to come to Washington, and rushing on the field fairly mobbed the home players.

Walter Johnson, who pitched the last four innings, got credit for the victory, and he was the object of the enthusiastic fans. The cheering was sustained for fifteen minutes after the game ended, each player's name being taken up in turn and shouted to the last echo.

Wild-eyed fanatics stood on top of the players' dugout directly in front of President and Mrs. Coolidge and did the cheering in which the chief executive and first lady of the land joined for a moment before being escorted from the park.

It was a great victory for Johnson on the eve of his retirement. Harris Gets Homer Harris first staked the Senators to a lead by hitting Barnes for a home run into the bleachers in the fourth and then after the Giants stepped out in front as a result of a fruitful sixth inning, it was Harris' single that drove home Leibold and Ruel with tying runs in the eighth. Harris' drive also took a freak hop over Lindstrom's head.

Johnson, beaten in two starts by the Giants, gained ample vengeance for past grievances. He was called in to save the game in the ninth when the score was tied, and save it he did.

Mows 'Em Down In each of the four innings he pitched the first man got on, but the big siege gun mowed down the remaining batters on each occasion, twice retiring Kelly on strikes after purposely passing Young.

It was one of the wildest games ever known to world series play. Barnes and Mogridge pitched wonderful ball through the first five innings, but Mogridge was forced to depart in the sixth and Barnes followed him in the eighth. After that pitchers came and went with care-free abandon—all that is, except Johnson. He didn't go until he had finished a task well done.

At 1 o'clock this morning there were lines that wound for blocks around the ball park and therein were representatives of every walk of life in the capital. Congressmen and government officials.

The situation was further complicated by the fact that seven booths handled the sale, each dealing in a different brand of pasteboards, and it was a common occurrence throughout the night

INTOXICANTS REPLACED BY MILK

Longshoremen on Bay of San Francisco Are Drinking Heavily

By L. C. OWEN
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Prohibition may be said to be making some progress out here. Milk—the plain, unadulterated lacteal fluid—has invaded the strongest stronghold and put to rout San Francisco's most popular pre-Volsteadian beverage—steam beer. Six thousand husky longshoremen of San Francisco's picturesque embarcadero now are consuming 5500 quarts of milk daily with their noonday lunches. The full purport of such a news item, however, cannot be fully comprehended without a word about "steam." For more than a score of years before the advent of prohibition the mere mention of the name of the city that knows how was almost synonymous with foamy biting schooners of San Francisco steam beer.

Made City Famous
Like the once famous Milwaukee product, San Francisco's favorite brand of beer might also be said to have made it famous. No other city boasted it, at least not until San Francisco created the demand, and nowhere else was it so good. Almost everybody drank steam—bankers, business men, truck drivers, Van Ness avenue society queens, humble wash ladies.

But of all the places in San Francisco where steam was consumed there was no place that vied in quantity consumption with the embarcadero. Every day wide wheeled brewery wagons, drawn by fat, sleek horses which the brewers refused to supplant with the more efficient auto truck, used to deliver 500 filled kegs to waterfront saloons. Popular gossip was that the ordinary capacity of each grimy, sweating longshoreman was two gallons daily—with double cargoes taken aboard each Saturday night and Sabbath holiday.

Survey Is Made
Evidence that this stronghold of steam has taken the count before such an uninspiring, kickless beverage as milk is contained in a service survey just completed here by an association of San Francisco milk dealers. The milk vendors, not unmindful of the once vaunted popularity of steam on the waterfront, are very proud of the inroads which have been made upon it by their own favorite beverage. Statistics gathered by the milkmen show, however, that steam was not abandoned by, nor did it depart from the local waterfront, synchronously with the advent of Volsteadism. For two years, it seems, the stevedores had their daily steam, regardless of the prohibition laws.

Standing Orders
Then milk, so the statistical figures show, commenced to make its inroads. Today the milkmen's records show there are 3300 standing orders for 5800 quart bottles of milk to be delivered to 5800 lunching stevedores sharply at noon. The other 200 of the estimated 6000 stevedores who labor daily on the waterfront are supposed to be sticking to steam. The milk diet statistics of the longshoremen also bring to light another interesting fact regarding prohibition. Of 137 saloons which a half dozen years ago graced the embarcadero there remain less than twenty—all, of course, "soft drink parlors." The presumption is that these twenty now divide up the steam beer business of the 200 stevedores who have not yet taken to milk.

STOCKYARDS ATTRACT PRINCE

Royal Highness Prefers Cows To Culture In Chicago Visit Next Week

By O. L. SCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 10.—The erstwhile Prince of Wales, Davy Windsor, certainly gave midwest society a jolt when he let it be known that he prefers its cows to its culture.

All the matrons of the district have thrilled with the thought of festivities that must surely attend the first visit of a future monarch to this second city of the land—only to learn that Mr. Windsor comes to Chicago next Monday for one purpose, and one alone—to look over its slaughterhouses.

Now society has never evinced interest in packing houses. They're probably the last thing in the world that even the midwest social world would imagine a prince caring. But Mrs. John Minette, daughter of Louis F. Swift, host to H. R. H., advises that the Prince of Wales, low that he has temporarily thrown over his title, desires to do nothing more while here than to scout around the packing town.

Real Institution
The prince, so the British consul general, Herbert Richard, says, has been extremely interested in live stock, since his early youth. "Title are one of his chief concerns while up on his Canadian ranch. Now he wants to see what becomes of his live stock once it gets well on its way toward the dinner table."

Culture can be encountered most anywhere, but not so cows in the world's greatest packing center. It must be remembered that the stock yards are Chicago's greatest institution. Almost everyone realizes that fact, except Chicagoans themselves. "They've never appreciated what an attraction exists in their midst. Not only in its size, but in its variety. The only sized portion of the population has so much as allowed his mind to dwell on packing houses, unless an unfavorable wind should now and then carry evidence of their existence."

Gold Coast Shocked
The prince got wind of packing town when he met Louis F. Swift, of Swift & Co., on the boat coming to this country. He was intrigued by the stories of efficiency in the local packing industry, which, the story has it, utilizes everything but the pig's squeal.

That was the opening wedge which is to give this big, somewhat ungainly city its first glimpse of real royalty in a long time. Of course, though, there is precedent for a princely visit to Chicago. Back in 1860 the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII, came here to get an idea of what the West looked like. In those days this place was out on the eastern edge of the frontier.

Naturally, there are those who feel that the present prince should see something better than his grandfather saw sixty-four years ago. They want him to appreciate that Chicago now has society. In fact, there were audible shudders when it was learned that the Gold Coast that H. R. H. was coming to hang around the slaughter houses for a day.

There are now rumors, however, that the prince may allow some slight alteration from the day's schedule so that he may meet a select company of the Swift estate in Lake Forest. This has not been confirmed by the society folk, who are beginning to count on this slender chance to make an acquaintance with royalty.

Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital

The senior public health class of the training school of nurses gave an exhibit in the parlor at the sanitarium Thursday night. Each one presented their poster and gave an explanation. These posters were especially prepared for work with school children. Miss Sarah Mayer gave the ten health habits, which are as follows: A daily bath, drinking eight glasses of water a day, brushing the teeth twice daily, cleaning the finger nails before each meal, eating some fruit and vegetables each day, attention to body eliminations, taking ten deep breaths in the open air daily, sitting and standing straight at all times, working at some useful occupation daily and sleeping with windows open. Miss Mayer also explained to the class how to follow these health rules. Miss Mollie Loeb spoke of the relationship between health and happiness.

Miss Visella Bush presented two posters, one showing the benefits of fresh air, sunshine and water, especially as found at the seashore, and one on the importance of including vegetables in the diet.

Miss Jean Cunningham especially emphasized the daily bath and the eagerness with which children follow the health rules. Miss Mary Place gave the relationship of milk and exercise to health, and Miss Mary Anderson showed the kind of outdoor exercise children enjoy, and gave some good suggestions. The place of the baby's bath in a health program was emphasized by Miss Grace Calhoun.

Kenneth Daughters compared goats' milk with cows' milk, and explained that goats are not as susceptible to such diseases as tuberculosis as are cows.

Miss Violet Hansen had a vegetable garden that had come to life; and from the healthy appearance of the boy hoeing in the garden it was very clear that "An hour a day keeps the doctor away."

Harry Hails spoke of the diet in the Bible times, and his poster showed groups of proper and improper foods. Miss Katherine Spomer emphasized the importance of sleep, especially for babies.

The result of the children drinking milk, as compared with those drinking tea and coffee, was presented by Miss Ada Wolgamott. J. Martin Jones showed the health ladder, which was composed of various sizes of milk bottles. Miss Bertha Moore emphasized the proper diet, which especially included a large variety of fruits and vegetables. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness" was the thought Miss Rice gave, and her poster showed the importance of keeping the home clean.

Miss Mabel Ross' poster was of a nurse at the foot of the stairway pointing out to two children the proper foods descending the stairs. On the platform at the head of the stairs Miss Mollie Loeb was sweeping off undesirable foods.

A group of children hurrying to Milkville, two blocks north, was presented by Miss Mollie Loeb. Miss Mary Anderson told how "only two generations ago there wasn't a bath tub in the modern sense in the United States. The first bath tub was installed in Cincinnati in 1841, and the man who installed it was considered 'queer.' Boston, in 1845, passed an ordinance making bathing in a tub unlawful except upon medical advice."—Pittsfield Eagle.

Fire Alarm System Urged For Northwestern District; Seek School Sites

It was recommended that the city of Glendale install a fire alarm system in this district, to be paid for out of the general fund. This action came after a lengthy discussion of the telephone and fire alarm situation, recently rendered acute by the fire that destroyed the home of A. A. Bennie at 1140 Allen avenue. It was decided to again request Fred Deal, Glendale manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., to co-operate in getting phones in the northwest section handled through the Glendale exchange instead of through the Burbank exchange, as at present.

Born in Brussels in 1873, his first ambition was to become a painter. Later, he entered the Brussels conservatory as a student of the violin, according to Mr. Moyses, coming under the tutelage of the famous Ysaye and winning a first prize. As a member of the Lamoureux Orchestra of Paris and later as principal viola of the Scottish Orchestra in Glasgow, he met with pronounced success, leading to his engagement in London as the leading viola player of the Queen's hall and at Philharmonic orchestras. Then America learned of him and his superb art and in 1903 he joined the Boston Symphony orchestra, where he remained until Conductor Walter Henry Rothwell persuaded him to join the Philharmonic orchestra of Los Angeles in 1920.

URGE WOMEN TO VOTE IN ELECTION

Pupils, parents and teachers at the Central Avenue school are heartily supporting the Parent-Teacher association, their combined enthusiasm being reflected in the report given at the first fall meeting of the association yesterday afternoon at the school, by Miss Ethel I. Culbertson, membership chairman, who stated that with 480 children enrolled in the school there are 380 parents and teachers enrolled in the P.-T. A.

This increase in membership was further emphasized by the large attendance at the P.-T. A. meeting, the school auditorium being filled to overflowing.

Mrs. Alice Ripley, president, presided over the meeting, featured by a talk by Mrs. F. B. Martin, chairman of legislation for the First District, P.-T. A. Mrs. Martin, who was introduced by Mrs. R. L. Young, program chairman, stressed the need for women to exercise their right to vote.

She also spoke of child labor legislation and urged the women and teachers to write to representatives when such legislation was needed.

A most enjoyable part of the program was the vocal music by Mrs. Lura Jennings Burris, accompanied by Mrs. Ripley. Mrs. Burris possesses a delightful voice and charming personality, and her many friends at Central Avenue school were happy to hear her. She sang "The Rain of Flowers" (Pearis) and "The Florien Song" (Godard).

GLENDALE A BUSINESS CENTER

If it should seem to some that Glendale's conquest of the business world was so sudden that she had not entrenched herself firmly, there are those who can affirm to the contrary. The editor of The Glendale Evening News has a very clear mental picture of the condition of business in Glendale eleven or twelve years ago, and the picture presents a sharp contrast with merchandising activity here today.

The merchants of those days deserve great honor. They are the ones who held the fort in the face of great odds until reinforcements came. At that time Glendale's area was only a small fraction of what it is today and the population was between 2000 and 4000. The merchants had not the trade or the potential trade that would enable them to offer such varieties and values as tend to draw business from outlying points. Furthermore, there were so few kinds of business represented in Glendale that the existing ones had no support in drawing the people here.

Glendale people knew all about the importance of supporting the home stores, but they could not buy what was not for sale, for the staples in clothing and foodstuffs were about the limit of the merchandise carried, so they were forced to buy ready-to-wear apparel and many other things elsewhere.

Those who were in business at that time were not without enterprise and ambition. Almost without exception they had faith in Glendale and her ultimate progress, and they worked as hard for the things that would bring about that progress as the merchants of today. Their hopes of a Greater Glendale were about to be realized when the war stopped business and progress. Then came the after-the-war activity (still continuing) that extended Glendale's boundaries, boosted her population to 55,000, and so stimulated business of every character as to place this city on a plane with the largest cities of the United States as a merchandising center.

With its hundreds of fine markets, department stores, pharmacies, automobile salesrooms, and with every kind of business represented, Glendale has a drawing territory for trade that covers the entire San Fernando and Eagle Rock valleys, as well as Hollywood.

If there is anyone who has not yet proved to himself that he can fill any of his wants and needs at fair prices in Glendale, let him watch the columns of The Glendale Evening News for one week and compare the offerings and prices he finds there with those of advertisements that come in from outside. Better still, let him visit the stores of Glendale, see their equipment for service, examine the merchandise and learn the prices. You will find that the merchants of Glendale are right in the front rank in the merchandising game. You will find that every kind of business, profession and trade is represented, each one helping to draw the people into Glendale from the outlying districts and neighboring cities.

The thousands of automobiles parked on our streets daily, alone brand Glendale as a merchandising center, and if you take the time to investigate you will see large bills of goods going to Hollywood and Pasadena as well as to points in the San Fernando, La Crescenta and La Canada valleys.

No one can walk about our streets, go in and out of stores, banks and offices and not set Glendale down as a thriving, progressive city. The business health that Glendale enjoys contributes to the prosperity of the city as a whole, for it attracts people from outside and keeps real estate values at a high mark.

STRAW VOTES

There are those who take no stock whatever in straw votes and others who have great faith in the efficacy of this method to show which way the wind blows. It is extremely difficult to foretell the result of a presidential election, but it is universally agreed that the Literary Digest's straw poll in national elections is the best method yet devised to get a line on election results.

Early returns from this poll in the eighteen states heard from show that Coolidge is running stronger than Harding did among the same voters four years ago, in all these states except California and Wisconsin. In New York, Iowa and Minnesota, so-called doubtful states, Coolidge runs considerably ahead of La Follette and Davis and also ahead of Harding's vote.

Out of a total of 689,019 votes, 397,522 are for Coolidge. The poll shows that La Follette is taking his strength from the Democrats and those who did not vote four years ago, and that Davis has lost approximately 28,000 Cox votes.

The Digest believes that this comparison of Coolidge and Harding votes and Davis and Cox votes is highly significant for the Republican vote in 1920 would have to be cut considerably to enable either of the other candidates to deadlock the election.

OUR EXCESS ENERGY

All crime is a mistaken use of excess energy, says an eminent psychologist. The story is told of a man who had the drink habit. A friend asked him, "Why do you drink?" He thought a moment and then replied, "I don't know. All I can say is that it unbottles in me something that seems to want to burst." The friend interested the tippler, who had some mechanical skill, in an invention, and he forgot his drink. He was using his excess vitality in a constructive way and this helped to unbottle that something within him.

We know that boys have an enormous surplus of energy, and that if this is not directed in the right way it may be used wrongfully. It is especially necessary that children be trained to use their excess energy in work and play of the right sort, for the average child has more vitality and more leisure than the average adult, and it is essential that good habits be acquired in youth.

Hard work has saved many a soul from crime. When we have been busy all day we have used so much of our bottled energy that it does not "seem to want to burst," in mischief or crime.

However, the psychologist quoted above states that our possible vitality is almost inexhaustible and that none of us is using more than a small portion of it. The use we make of our excess energy, our excess knowledge, our excess time and our excess emotion, he says, is the sign of our ability and power and determines our character.

The trouble with the children today is—they want to run everything but the lawn mower and the washing machine, and do everything but the dishes.

WAKING UP AT LAST!

Nouveau Riche

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The other day a man told me a good story. A woman kept a boarding house at a resort in the country.

She did no advertising, but nevertheless carried on a very good business, for she was a good cook and one customer recommended her to another. Consequently her house was rather full all of the time during the season.

On one occasion a gentleman whom we will call Nouveau Riche happened along. He was dressed in a nice new top coat and hat. He looked like a million dollars and probably was.

He had the air of one who spoke with authority. As he entered the place he handed his hat and coat to the boy and asked the way to the dining room. There he ordered the head waiter to give him a seat, but was informed that all the seats were taken and he would have to wait for a little while.

"I am not in the habit of waiting for anybody," said the visitor. "Then excuse me a moment; I will see the madame," said the head waiter.

Presently he returned and said that dinner would be served the gentleman in a private room, if he must eat right away.

After partaking of an excellent dinner in the private room, the gentleman called for his bill. There is no bill," said the waiter.

"What do you mean—no bill?" said the gentleman. "I pay for everything I get and if you do not give me a bill I won't come again."

"That is what the madame thought, sir," said the waiter, politely.

This fable teaches us that it is sometimes very expensive to get something for nothing. Another fable of similar import.

A lady found that she owed $200 after an afternoon spent at a friend's house, in order to pay her bridge debts. She did not gamble and did not know that they were playing for money until it was too late.

"But never mind," said the hostess, "your husband can send me a check."

When the husband sent the check he made it out for $205. This included the bridge game and the lunch.

It is needless to say they were not bothered with that lady's attentions any further.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1844

A little more than a month from the date of his inauguration President Harrison was dead. He was 68 years old when elected; in feeble health and the excitement and labors of the campaign, the army of office-seekers, which descended upon Washington, together with the great questions of state which he found confronting him brought him to his grave. The strain was too much for him. He was the first president to die in office. John Tyler succeeded to the presidency; the first vice-president to become president by the death of his chief. There was some doubt as to whether Tyler became president or only acting president. While Congress was debating the question a message was received signed "John Tyler, President." The debate stopped and the question involved has never since been raised. Tyler was a Virginia lawyer and planter; had held many high state offices and had represented Virginia in both the House and the Senate; from which latter body he had resigned rather than obey the mandate of the Virginia legislature and vote to expunge from the Senate records the censure passed upon Jackson for his action in the bank matter. He had been elected as a Whig but once in the presidential chair he proceeded to oppose many of the Whig policies; and he so demoralized the party that the Democrats had every hope of capturing the presidency at the close of his administration. They held a convention in May of 1844 and after a stormy session in the course of which Van Buren just missed getting the nomination, nominated James K. Polk of Tennessee, claimed to be the first "dark horse" candidate ever nominated for the vice presidency. The party platform advocated "the occupation of the whole territory of Oregon" and the annexation of Texas. The Whigs had already held their convention and nominated Henry Clay and Theodore Frelinghuysen; the latter a distinguished New Jersey educator and former United States Senator. The abolitionists or Liberty party held a convention and nominated James C. Birney, a Southern planter and lawyer who had manumitted his slaves, came north and turned abolitionist. When election came Birney polled 63,300 votes. Polk polled 1,337,243 and Clay 1,299,062. Polk had 170 electoral votes and Clay 105. Henry Clay, whose fame is greater today than that of many presidents, was destined never to achieve that high office for which so large a part of his fellow countrymen desired him. The incensed Whigs charged fraud in the elections; but finally accepted their defeat.

Horoscope

The Sun in benefic aspect dominates today, according to astrology. Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus are adverse. Stimulation and encouragement for all who carry heavy responsibilities or cherish high ambitions appear to be assured under this rule of the stars.

It is a most favorable day for all who occupy places in the Sun, since the aspect promises for them the support of the people.

All the signs are read as favorable to persons who hold the reins of power, whether in finance, politics or diplomacy.

Under this planetary government it is wise to promote enterprises, postponing any actual initiative until later.

This should be a fairly fortunate day for those who deal with banks as financiers are supposed to be helpful under this rule.

Lawyers are subject to a rule not favorable and members of the legal profession will be much criticized.

Real estate should be handled with special care in many parts of the country, for there may be difficulty in swinging big projects.

Again mining difficulties loom large on the horizon and the winter may bring serious trouble.

Labor in this country as well as other parts of the world will be dissatisfied with conditions and will make important moves toward domination.

Uranus continues in a place that is menacing to the brain and the will power. The use of drugs will spread despite effort to prevent the growing evil.

Men and women should not indulge in sentiment today as they may be easily deceived and entangled into unwise alliances.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a troublesome year. They should make no changes, but stick to present activities.

Children born on this day may be care-free and inclined to extravagance, but these subjects of Libra usually have great technical ability and succeed as mechanics and decorators.

EVERYBODY IN

"That was no marriage. That was a merger."

Today's Poem

CLIQUE AND CLAN

A clan is a clique, a clique is a clan. Their methods are the same, And membership rests alone in the man.

Who proudly bears its name; Allegiance he swears and sticks to the clique

And plays in a game that masters the trick Outsiders to defame.

The man who upholds another one's crime And fearlessly will lie, Remembers a day for there comes a time

His coteries will die, When they have consumed their infamous seeds That sprouted the blades of destructive weeds—

Exposure they defy. Such forces exist and thrive for a while Like brazen pirates bold, Today they may live in sumptuous style,

Tomorrow leaves them cold; Upon their closed doors publicity knocks, Subjecting the clan to insults and shocks,

Their secrets to behold. The greatest estate a man may acquire Needs neither clan nor clique; Good will and respect will never conspire

Or stoop to play a trick On one who is fair in playing the game, With honor and honesty due his name

Where truth has fed life's wick. —By George G. Benedict

Smiles

PLANT A FEW EGGS

A couple had just returned from their honeymoon.

"Hilda, dearest," said George, "I see there is some asparagus ready for cooking. Shall we go out and pluck it together, love?"

To which Hilda replied, cooingly: "George, dearest, it will be heavenly! You shall pluck it and I will hold the ladder."

Who's Who

It is generally believed that John J. Bernet, president of the present Nickel Plate lines since 1916, will become head of the new great Nickel Plate system. Now in the building under the masterful guidance of the Van Sweringen brothers, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Bernet was summoned from the vice presidency of the New York Central lines eight years ago to head the Nickel Plate lines and he is given full credit for the development of that road generally and the speeding up of its service, freight and passenger.

Bernet came up through the New York Central organization in what has been called "the A. H. Smith school of railway executives"—admittedly the best in the world.

His tryout as telegrapher came in October, 1889, and in 1895 he became dispatcher at Buffalo, in 1901 trainmaster of the eastern division. After that promotion was rapid. By 1903 he was assistant superintendent of the eastern division, 1905 division superintendent, then to Cleveland the same year as assistant general superintendent of the western lines, 1905 general superintendent, finally to Chicago as assistant vice president, and in 1914 vice president.

In a curious way his career parallels that of the new president of the Central, P. C. Crowley. Both "pounded the key," then both were superintendents—Crowley of the east, Bernet of the west. They knew each other well. Both come of the Irish stock that furnish so many men to run the "heavies"—the railroads, mines, steel mills and building construction.

Now it appears Mr. Bernet is to operate a system ranking next to that of Crowley's—they are rivals now.

At home in Cleveland Mr. Bernet is a family man. He married young and has three sons and two daughters.

Start Glass Factory Near Corona Soon

CORONA, Oct. 10.—Work will soon start on the construction of a $100,000 glass factory in Corona by the Beaver Glass Manufacturing Co. Corona was chosen as a site for the new industry for the reason that the hills south of the city contain an almost inexhaustible quantity of the kind of sand sought by the company, and can be supplied $1.50 per ton cheaper than in other localities.

DISTURBING ELEMENTS ACTIVE

Textile Trade Hit by Rumors
And Reports Sweeping
Entire Country

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Uncertainty and lack of confidence are the outstanding features of the textile situation throughout the country at present. As a result, reports and rumors, most of them without foundation in fact, are sweeping from one section to another. The fact remains that every man, woman and child in this country is consumer of textiles to a greater or less extent and those closest to the situation firmly believe that when some of the uncertain factors have been eliminated a large activity in the trade will result.

Fluctuations in the price of cotton and the extent of the crop is one such factor. Governmental reports as issued today and previously this year, have been a disturbing element, unsatisfactory to nearly every department of industry involved. The way these reports are computed and the frequency with which they have been issued have given rise to a situation which has disrupted mill schedules.

Hit By Boost
The rise in cotton prices in the last few weeks left textile manufacturers undecided whether to cover their requirements at current levels or not. Some mills ran so short of staple that they were forced to borrow from those better supplied or to buy spot at a premium for immediate delivery. Some mills holding ample supplies, it is known, have reaped a comfortable profit in a few cases a cent a pound from such lendings.

These facts, it is believed, gave rise to reports that one of the largest textile manufacturing companies had sold $20,000,000 worth of cotton bought previously at lower prices, at a heavy profit and that therefore these mills did not care temporarily whether they opened in full, in part or at all. Careful checking up of this report showed its extreme improbability.

One dealer figured that this cotton would reach the enormous amount of 240,000 bales. It is claimed that the company could not have financed such a purchase even at lower prices prevailing earlier in the year, even if its bankers had been willing to stand it. Dealers in southern markets have been unable even by careful checking to trace traders of any such magnitude.

Wage Is Factor
In fact, most dealers assert that the amount of cotton sold by mills to take a speculative profit has been about one hundredth part of what rumors asserted. Some mills undoubtedly covered requirements when cotton broke under 23 cents but it is more than doubtful if, in view of the uncertainty as to the crop, they have been willing to let go much of it.

The wage situation in New England has also been a disturbing factor. Manufacturers have repeatedly declared that a wage cut was essential to meet increases in cotton prices and southern competition. Southern mills did not increase wages when the northern plants took that step last year. Nearly every manufacturer, however, has held off to allow others to take the first step, since whoever started the move would bear the brunt of the fight while others would reap the benefit.

The Amoskeag mills announced a reduction of 10 per cent, but cancelled this week on the grounds that the jump in the price of cotton had made a ten per cent cut insufficient. What bearing, if any, the holding back of other mills may have had on this decision is a matter of conjecture in the trade.

Jobbers Anxious
In the meantime, jobbers and consumers have not been willing to wait and dicker. They have found they could get the goods they want from England and Germany and many of them have done so. This is noticeable in woollens and worsteds as well as in cotton goods. One of the largest mail order houses has ordered half a million suits of clothes from England. New York and Philadelphia retailers have imported shiploads of blankets and thousands of yards of English cottons have been sold to American consumers. It is doubtful if this trade would have gone abroad had not the American textile industry been in a disrupted condition.

Nevertheless, New England cotton mills are now estimated to be operating between 65 and 70 per cent of capacity and woolen plants are doing equally well. The south, perhaps, is in even better condition.

Political Pulse

Editor's Note—This is the second of a series of articles written by A. S. Hall, of The Glendale Evening News editorial staff, dealing with the political situation in Central and Middle Western states in the South and Southwest. The first article in this series was published on a tour of 6000 miles through Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The third article of the series will appear in the Glendale Evening News tomorrow and will be: Bearding Bob in His Home State.

II—A WHOLE STATE ON THE POLITICAL FENCE

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

Nebraska, one of the few states in the Union having a "native son" entered in the presidential race, is having a hard time deciding which way to vote, the writer learned on a recent tour of that state. Normally, Nebraska voters would climb on the Republican bandwagon, but since William Jennings Bryan, without whom a Democratic party history of the United States could not be written, engineered things so his illustrious brother, Governor Charles Bryan, got mixed up in national politics, the voters are on the political fence.

There are many who crave to vote for Gov. Bryan, not only because he is a "native son" but because they feel Brother Charlie knows more about politics than Brother Bill ever will know, as one voter in that state recently told the writer. On the other hand, these same voters who are ready to jump up and hurrah Charlie from morning to night, are not overly anxious to show any preference for Davis, the informant added.

Would Split Vote
"What the folks around these parts really desire," the informant continued, "and what they would really relish, if it could be done, would be a chance to split their votes, and team up Coolidge and Bryan. Of course, it can't be done, but that's the way they feel about it. Some folks are fearful that in face of such a situation Bob La Follette will step in and grab all the gravy, but they're wrong, La Follette hasn't a chance in this state."

"There was a time in this campaign when La Follette stood up pretty well in Nebraska, but he has slipped a great deal. His attack on the United States supreme court and the constitution of the United States, both of which were the means of saving Nebraska from the effects of the language law, have cost him a lot of support. The labor folks are drifting away from him, too. This labor drift is going about fifty-fifty to Coolidge and Davis."

Labor for Davis
The Coolidge-Davis combination has failed to attract the labor support in Nebraska that was expected, the writer learned from an authoritative source. On the other hand, the Labor day speech made by Davis won him a lot of support in Nebraska, and since that time there has been a steady growth in the Davis-Bryan clubs throughout the state.

While pre-election activities of political clubs in any state can hardly be taken as a barometer, nevertheless they give fair indications of the political pulse, and, when analyzed closely, the Davis-Bryan clubs in Nebraska show a slight gain in sentiment for the Democratic party leaders.

Up and down the state the Democrats are pointing to the apparent disruption of the Republican party along party lines, as far as the state ticket is concerned. There are some candidates on the Republican state ticket, Democrats insist, who are not wholly in support with the ideas and aims of the majority, and that the voters are riding along in hopes the strong candidates will carry them through.

Women Active
The Democrats point to Attorney General Spillman and Railway commissioner H. G. Taylor as evidence of the split. Spillman, it is said, is strongly in favor of the proposed state constitutional amendment which will do away

TUNIC IS CHIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The tunic blouse of facile, cleverly pleated, is a smart addition to present day costume. In rust, it looks especially well with a skirt of black satin.

"The Land of Heart's Desire"

Well, folks, that's just the sort of title came to me when I saw those people arrivin' Saturday, all smilin' and happy. You know you could just see how they were lookin' forward to a good time. Came out of their machines with a big hand-shake and a "Howdy, John," or "Hello, Bill," you and the wife and kiddies certainly look fine. "Isn't it great up here at Frazier Mountain Park? Bought your cabin site yet?" That night they camped out under the stars, and when they woke up in the mornin' all freshened up, hungry and happy, gosh! you should have seen them eat and say: Tastin' good isn't half the words for it. You remember how rainy, foggy and gray-like it was in town. Well, it was just beautiful and sunshiny up there at Frazier Mountain Park. Then a whole lot of folks came up Sunday 'till there was more'n 200 machines there. Think of it! Mostly from Glendale. But there was a pretty smart bunch from Bakersfield and Taft. Just for instance, one Bakersfield party didn't have much time, drove right over, bought his lot and hustled back to town again, sorry he couldn't stay longer, but mighty happy he had his cabin site.

"They're Sellin' Fast"

and next Saturday and Sunday there's going to be more salesmen, and with all the rest of the lots in the first allotment staked out, take my "tip"—step lively. The next bunch is going to cost more money. We're specially anxious that you call at the Glendale office, 108 West Broadway, and talk it over. If you're wise you'll put down some silver smackers at the office and pick out your lot Saturday or Sunday. Want to give you the names of some prominent people who have bought theirs just to show you what good neighbors you're gettin'. You'll feel like a 2-year-old breathing that fine mountain air midst the pines and oaks. I nearly split my sides laughin' when Pete Ferry's mules got to feelin' so frisky and peppy they run off, busted the wagon into a lot of nice kindling wood for some of those cheery fireplaces in the park. Pete Ferry is doing' great work. One of the big dams will be all ready this week. Then, oh, boy! there'll be lots of fun.

With the Selling Out of the $100 Cabin Sites in the First Allotment Next Sunday the Prices on the Next Allotment Will Be $125—So Get Yours Now.

Mrs. F. Dobinson Speaks At Kiwanis Meeting on Future of Drama

The nation is passing through a dramatic age, and the stock company is to be the salvation of the drama, Mrs. Florence Dobinson, director of the Dobinson Players, now appearing at the Tuesday Afternoon Club theatre, told members of the Kiwanis club at the meeting held today noon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

The Pacific Coast is fast becoming the rival of New York and Broadway in theatrical productions, Mrs. Dobinson said. Stock companies are a part of the community, the members of the cast become a part of the everyday life of the city in which they are appearing, and must necessarily live clean lives, she said.

W. H. Stephens, a member of the Dobinson Players, told some back-stage stories of New York theatrical life. Mr. Stephens recently returned from a year on Broadway. He is a native Californian, having been born in Los Angeles.

Arrange Finances
The members voted an assessment of $10 each to provide funds for the annual Halloween party to be given by the club, after Frank Fox had reported on the action of the board of directors. Sid Singer, Glendale manager of the Southern California Gas Co., announced he would furnish men to put the High school grounds in shape for the party. Harry MacBain will make a deep reduction on cookies, Frank Fox will furnish lumber and Sid Brown will provide hot Comalt for the children.

The members also voted to increase the subscription to the Y. M. C. A. building fund to $2,000 to provide two rooms which will bear the Kiwanis nameplate. Secretary Don Webb announced the charter night celebration of the Bell Kiwanis club on October 24.

Bert Perry presided in the absence of President A. L. Baird. It was announced that President Baird and Dr. T. C. Young had secured four deer and a venison dinner will be served next Friday.

Convention Plans
The local club will be represented by more than fifty persons at the state convention in Santa Barbara November 14 and 15, with Glendale headquarters at the Arlington hotel, it was announced. Fred Deal spoke on the coming convention.

The attendance prize, donated by William Hooper, was won by Lyman Clark. The silent boost was provided by T. L. Totman. William Truitt announced 100 per cent vote pennants were available. Dr. F. R. Gartley spoke on the Kiwanis Boy Scout troop and optometry.

Gilmore Oilers Play White Sox on Sunday

The game between the Glendale White Sox and the Pacific Fleet All-Stars, originally scheduled for Sunday at the local park on San Fernando road, has been cancelled, it was announced today by Frank Kerwin. The Gilmore Oilers, always a drawing card in Glendale, and considered a strong team, will meet the Pale Hose again Sunday.

Bonelli, secured from the Kansas City Blues, will be on the mound for the local squad. "Ping" Bodie, big league player, signed yesterday by Kerwin, will play in the outfield. Bob Wallace will hurl for the visitors. The fleet Oilers were unable to come on account of the visit of the U. S. S. Shenandoah to San Diego tomorrow and Sunday.

Police Get Busy

Loud and long were the lamentations that went up around the park incipient fights were started and the police were hard put to control the situation.

The lines began to dwindle just before dawn today, only to fill up again as the sun came up. The magnet that drew them this morning was the announcement that at one o'clock 2500 general admission tickets, together with all others, would be thrown on the market on a basis of first come, first served. The lines of speculators formed on the right of these.

Although the market may be stale, as some observers report, others watching the grains declare the top has not yet been reached and with high wheat everything else will be affected.

"I have five children," said the wife of the vice presidential candidate, "and I still find time to take an active interest in the political life of the nation.

"I am interested first in peace and law enforcement. I am appealing to women for the support of an honest cause because, as mothers, they should be even more interested. I do believe they are more anxious to have a clean government than men."

Mrs. Wheeler has a firm handshake and a smile that radiates good will and kindness. Her hair, fluffily curled, frames a slender face. Her eyes are grey and set well apart.

HOME TOWN TROPHY TO BE GIVEN

Charms of Glendale Told
At Realtors' Convention
By Peter Hanson

000,000 a year. Golden fruit yielding $65,000,000. Touching elbows with the great motion picture industry, thirty-five minutes from Los Angeles with her billion dollar industrial output and three million dollar payroll. Natural gas and cheap hydro-electric power for her expanding factories, now numbering seventy. The faith and pep of 54,000 who believe in their city, with a kind word for every city.

"Sharing a common California heritage, her growth outranks them all. The last federal census showed a gain of 394 per cent, outstripping all other American cities. Her slogan, 'The Fastest Growing City in America' was therefore bestowed by none other than Uncle Sam. From 2700 in 1910 to 13,000 in 1920 and now to 54,000 in 1924, an increase of 2000 per cent in fourteen years. Last year 56 miles of streets were paved and 36 miles of water mains laid. Bank clearings doubled, building permits trebled, assessed valuation quadrupled the last three years, and along with it all real estate values have kept pace and fortunes have been made.

"But the call of my city is above the dollar mark. Not in institutions and achievements alone; not from her scenery and surroundings, charming though they may be. The call of my city lies in the cherished ideals of love for home and country. Upon this is my city built. From this her charms go out drawing the sons of men in a never-ending stream to serve and be beloved.

"I bring to you Glendale—'The Fastest Growing City in America.'"

Committee Meeting

Mr. Hanson met with the committee of thirteen of the state association at headquarters of the Los Angeles Realty board this morning to discuss matters which came up for settlement at the recent meeting of the committee in Fresno. The committee was scheduled to take action on the question of more than one realty board in a city and a resolution along these lines, adopted at the Fresno meeting two weeks ago was to be discussed and probably decided on. The meeting lasted the entire morning.

Twelve Glendale women attended the breakfast and meeting of women realtors which started at 7:30 o'clock this morning and lasted until 9 o'clock. Mrs. Ione Davis of Pasadena spoke on "Work of the State Women's Committee." Mrs. M. V. Guest, manager of the rental department of the Hogan Co., Pasadena, also spoke using as her subject, "The Rental Department of a Real Estate Office." Mrs. Winifred L. Fisher, president of the Artesia Realty board, presided. Those present from Glendale included Mrs. Peter Hanson, wife of the Glendale Realty board president; Mrs. Mabel Tight, Dr. Jessie Russell, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Mrs. Martha Hunter, Mrs. Ethel Gaskill, Mrs. Eileen Hitchcock, Mrs. Sarah B. Stewart, Mrs. Lou B. Nichols, Misses Viola Sayre, Leonora Jones, Anna Venneman and Winifred Travis, secretary of the Glendale board.

General Session

The general session, opening at 9 o'clock, was held at the Raymond theatre, where more interesting speakers were heard by the assembled realtors. Dr. Robert Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian church, opened the meeting with an invocation. Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate boards, was the first speaker, and he was followed by C. A. Ricks, secretary of the California Association of Insurance Agents, Martinez.

The directors' annual luncheon was held at noon with H. Robert Ennis, president, and Herbert U. Nelson, secretary of the National Association of Realty Boards, as guests. Speeches were given by Hugh R. Pomeroy, secretary, Los Angeles County Planning commission, and Hon. Ray L. Riley, state controller, formerly an officer of the real estate commission.

Banquet Tonight

This afternoon the visiting realtors will be taken on a forty-mile tour of sections adjacent to Pasadena. The journey will include trips to the interesting spots near there and the realtors will probably be routed through Glendale once more.

Robert A. Swink, president of the Pasadena Realty Board, will preside at the annual banquet in the main dining room, Hotel Maryland, tonight. Talks will be given by Henry P. Barbour, president of the state association; William May Garland, former president of the state body; Hon. Friend W. Richardson, governor of California; Hazel M. Grant, chairman women's committee of state body; H. Robert Ennis, president of the national association; and songs by glee clubs from northern realty boards. In addition the newly elected officers will be presented and awards made for the home town trophy.

Tomorrow will witness the closing of the twentieth convention of the state association and the closing day will be devoted to general talks and athletics. Glendale will be represented in all the tournaments, including golf, tennis and horseshoes. Jack Galvin being in charge of this department.

DOPE SELLING TO YOUTHS OUTLINED

Drug Peddlers Work Among High School Students, Says Judge Keetch

Intimate details of how dope is being peddled to high school students were revealed yesterday afternoon at the luncheon of the Glendale Rotary club by Judge Arthur Keetch, who said he was prone not to appreciate the fact that there now are 1,000,000 addicts in the United States.

A South Pasadena doctor informed him that one evening he was summoned to a Pasadena home where the 19-year-old son was in the grip of a heroin spree. The story obtained by the doctor was as follows:

The youth, always a weakling, was standing on the sidelines at a football game. He was approached by a stranger who asked why he was not playing.

"I am not strong enough," the boy is reported to have replied. "Let me give you something that will make you strong," the dope peddler urged and soon he had a heroin customer. Ten administrations of heroin, according to Judge Keetch, absolutely ruins all hope of recovery for the addict.

Would Exchange State Forests for One Site

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 10.—State Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury, in his biennial report to Governor Richardson, recommends that state lands in national forests which are scattered over twenty-two counties be exchanged for a single tract of government land.

The state would gain at least $250,000 by such an exchange, the surveyor general estimated, as it is impossible to sell odd tracts such as the state now holds. Public auction sales of school land during the biennial period resulted in the state disposing of 67,324 acres for a total of $202,807, Kingsbury advised. The surveyor general submitted his budget request for the coming two years in connection with his report, asking for $57,645 to operate his department. The budget is about $2000 less than the amount apportioned Kingsbury's office two years ago.

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 10.—When Roland Pothier's third alleged confession, in which he charged Captain Robert Rosenbluth with ordering him to shoot Major Alexander Cronkhite, was read to the jury in the Pothier murder trial here, James J. Lee, former department of justice agent, identified it and related the circumstances under which it was made in his presence. In the alleged confession, Pothier said he killed Major Cronkhite but that Captain Rosenbluth put him up to it. Lee told the jury of his methods of using Pothier's wife and a Catholic priest to urge Pothier to tell the true story of Major Cronkhite's death at Camp Lewis, Wash.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Senator Robert M. La Follette's "slush fund" charges were answered by the Republican National committee through William H. FORM COLLEGE IN SOUTH IS URGED

Governor, Committee Hold Meeting In Los Angeles; Plans Not Revealed

GIL A. COWAN, For Southland News Service, LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Members of the agricultural committee of the Board of Regents, University of California, were closeted recently with Governor Friend W. Richardson in an executive session. They discussed a moot subject—that of establishing a full-fledged agricultural college in the southland, similar to the existing school at Davis in the Sacramento valley.

The discussion centered around Riverside's efforts to maintain the citrus experiment station and develop that center for summer sessions into a college. Other committees seek the institution and the problem of finances was another matter in which opinions were expressed, views considered and no definite conclusion arrived at. Following the round table discussion, which was attended by no lesser light than H. A. Jastro, president and general manager of the Kern County Land & Cattle Co. and head of the state fair association, as well as other regents and Robert Sproule, controller of the state university, the governor and others were reluctant to make public any of their personal observations. However, the governor did say:

"Attendance Falls. Agricultural colleges is dropping off. In this state we now have the equipment and teaching force for twice the number of students enrolled. This is due, no doubt, to the fact that farming has not been profitable for several years past. And young people would much rather have office jobs like yourself," he added, turning on his interrogator.

All of which would indicate to the layman that now is the time for a campaign to be waged in favor of the farm schools and reviving interest in agriculture pursuits which provide the foundation for western progress and development.

Comment

By GIL A. COWAN

Believe it or not, the east is not concerned about the coming presidential election. Despite the daily deluge of windjamming speeches, which are duly chronicled there is not, and has not been, and likely will not be, an issue raised.

And a record vote likely will be polled with President Coolidge the favorite, although La Follette's strength will be surprising—in spots. This writer is not a political expert. For that matter, many who pretend to be are frauds. They mouth that which is passed on to them by some paid press agent who only knows which side his bread is buttered. So much bunk! But, the issues promoted by various spokesmen in this campaign savor even more of political buncombe until one wishes that some real leader would arise in the "amen" corner and say something.

America is so prosperous it doesn't much care about politics. If it did, there would be a wholesale housecleaning in congress.

Yes, Americans are so smug they allow certain interests to walk off with rich prizes without a fight. In other words, "let 'em get it if they can." That applies to minerals, timber, oil, water and power, as well as money.

But, there will come a day when resources will be exhausted. Then there will be real issues in election campaigns. In the meantime, why worry?

Judge Arthur Keetch talked to the Rotary club yesterday in a way few people would dare. In other words, he told the fathers there, and some mothers of the Tuesday Afternoon club may have been "listening in"—around the corner, that—

"Fathers and mothers are not sufficiently equipped with knowledge of the world as it is today to be fathers and mothers!"

Will Wood, state superintendent of schools, at the superintendent's session last week, told the teachers it was up to them to pass the responsibility of "youthful tendencies" of today back to the parents.

And Judge Keetch goes farther. He says the state legislature should pass a law making parents responsible for their children.

All of which would indicate that "Bugs" Baer, philosophical funster, was right when he alleged that babies are more worldly wise than their parents, which Judge Keetch attributes to parents' eternal lust for gold. He cited an instance of a Kansas City father who had built a fortune, but his son was in the tails of the law, for he had never been taught moral responsibility.

Parents, worthy of the word father and mother, cannot place money or pomp or power above the care for their children. They cannot expect respect where they do not respect each other, as the judge pointed out with reference to the divorce mill.

And, above all, parenthood must be based on spirituality. As Judge Keetch well said:

"The prayers of a good mother will follow you all the days of your life."

And that's that.

The pastor and wife, Dr. and Mrs. William Middlemass, were present at each meeting.

The following new members have been received into the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church: Donald Ward, Norman Winnor, Gordon Winnor, Wesley Spencer, Forest Clark, Anna Hizer, Helen McNary, John Riggs and Reba Stevens.

CHAFFEE'S WEEKLY
Delivered Every Friday

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Oct. 10.—Members of the La Crescenta Women's club celebrated, this week, the club's fifteenth anniversary with fitting ceremonies. President Mrs. Charles Turck, presided. An anniversary cake with fifteen candles and each president's name inscribed, was a feature. Mrs. E. Farmer was credited with the novel idea.

Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the gavel fell following the reading of the club litany. The minutes of the last meeting were approved. The fiscal statement of the past year as read by Mrs. John Martin showed a balance on hand of $3,600 with $6000 assets, as against $4000 for the previous year.

C. E. Culbertson, donor of the lots on which the new clubhouse is to be erected agreed to extend the time originally allotted for building by the clubhouse. The property is situated on the north-east corner of Piedmont and Los Angeles avenues. Club members expect to erect an unusual type of house that will be in keeping with the growth of the valley.

Curators of the various departments gave outlines of the work planned for the coming year. Reports were read by the following heads of departments:

Mrs. S. Singleton of the American citizenship department; Louise Erwin on philanthropy; V. Phillips, art; E. Merritt, home economics; R. Q. MacDonald, music; Jessie Hansen, drama; F. Pin-kus, parliamentary law.

These members were named heads of the following committees: Mesdames C. Turk, travel; A. W. Brown, calling committee; Harvey Bissell, building committee; Anna Aiken, drive for building fund; Eloise Farmer, hospitality and cooked food sales; F. L. Sullivan, ways and means; Robert Newton and Louise Erwin, membership; Vernon Hall, R. Reynolds, federation law; Charles Collins, literature; C. O. Miller, junior auxiliary; Mary B. Dar-row, publicity and historian.

After the business of the afternoon was concluded a cooked food sale managed by Mrs. E. Farmer netted $15. Mrs. Farmer announced that no food would be sold before the meetings.

Miss Lena Krug announced that she would present a scrapbook to the club for the use of publicity. Letters of thanks for flowers sent during illness were read from Mrs. E. N. Nettleton, Mrs. A. F. Hopkins and Mrs. G. Sherb, first president of the club.

The auditorium was decorated for the afternoon by Mrs. R. Pritchard and Mrs. Fred Kimball. Mrs. Mark S. Collins and Mrs. C. W. Angier served at the flower-decorated tea tables.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday, October 22, at the La Crescenta school auditorium. The meeting will be open to visitors.

The four patrols of the La Crescenta Valley Girl Scouts are planning a Halloween party similar to that given last year. A party will be given in the afternoon for the children. A dance party will be given in the evening for adults. Funds raised by this party are to go into the camping fund for next summer. Full plans and the date of the entertainment will be announced later.

Many friends of Mrs. Frank B. Romo attended the funeral services for her husband this afternoon at the Little Church of the Flowers. Interment was in the Forest Lawn cemetery.

MRS. SARAH FISHER MOOMAW, 84 years old, picked Glendale as her home city.

Mrs. Sarah Fisher Moomaw celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Frank B. Yoder, 1239 East Harvard street. Although a loyal Hoosier, Mrs. Moomaw favors Southern California and Glendale as a home city. With her parents she moved to Indiana in the pioneer days. She recalls vividly the first railroad train passing over the New York Central to Chicago. Another of her treasured memories is the village blacksmith shop, near her Indiana home, owned by the Studebaker brothers, now manufacturers of the Studebaker automobile. Mrs. Moomaw is the mother of ten children. On her birthday she received a profusion of greetings from relatives and friends in Glendale and elsewhere.

CHAPTER LXXIV
"Tomorrow we will have our trip, our two-days' trip!" he promised her. He sat at the piano, never his familiar instrument, but his tonight because he was so anxious to do something extraordinary for her, and Hilary, moved by some of the same indefinable feeling, took up his violin. And as with infinite effort and many mistakes they played this reverse duet, she was reminded of other lovers: of Dante's drawing and of Raphael's sonnet. There was new music there: they were soon deep in it.

She had changed to the new blue velvet, with the preposterously beautiful cuffs and collar that Mrs. Spaulding had selected from her own laces. Thus they had played together in the very beginning, the first night in Mount Holly; thus they had played last autumn, when Hilary was only conscious of liking him, of wanting to be his friend, his protector. And thus they had played a hundred times in the past few months at Dora's piano, at Etelka's, at Kronska's own. But there was no audience now; and under their music throbbed the passion of this exquisite hour when they were trembling on the brink of the new life. She was his wife, this superb woman with the keenly cut mouth and the shining blue eyes; and high above the city they both loved, away from it, yet in its very heart, they came to their wonderful hour.

This was on Tuesday night, and it was on the Friday following that Banks demurely announced to Dora and her mother-in-law at luncheon, "Madame Kronska. Radiant, Hilary came in, close upon the announcement of her name. But Hilary was in her arms, and they laughed a little shakily at their emotion at being together again.

"I have exactly twenty-five minutes," Hilary announced, looking at her wrist-watch. "When did we get in? This morning. We went to the studio, Von Mandesch was there, and we all had a late breakfast together. Konrad plays at Carnegie this afternoon, and I came to kidnap my Butterfly. You are invited to my box, Mrs. Spaulding. I am nouvelle arrive, but I am not a snob."

"Late, perhaps," Mrs. Spaulding said, after thought. "I'm full of a thousand affairs, and you rush off and get married—it's very annoying." "It's very wonderful," Hilary assured her, with a sort of gravely smiling dignity. "I have to remind myself that there is nothing phenomenal about it. Every week has its weddings, and every week has its women discovering, as I am, what exquisite joy it is to have companionship, devotion—someone who cares that you have tea for breakfast, and who worries if you aren't in promptly for lunch! I've thought of you and Craig a hundred times, Butterfly, and what a baby you were when you went off from Mount Holly!"

"Too much of a baby!" Dora said, thoughtfully, an hour later, when they were in the darkness of the box, and in the hush of the crowded house the orchestra was about to begin.

"What did you say, my darling?" "I was thinking of what you said at luncheon, Sis. I was too much of a baby when I was married. I didn't have the right sense of proportion. Silly things counted with me, and the great things somehow—slipped by me."

Hilary's face was grave as she leaned on the back of her sister's chair. But Hilary was at her lovely, spread today, in a new gown of softly spreading black silk; her fair hair was framed in a great velvet hat. She had loosened her big fur coat; her exquisite skin and her red lips were the only relieving touch of color in the shadowy whole except for the great cluster of gardenias pinned against the rich seal of her collar.

Here and there in the big house some especially sharp eyes had identified the violinist's young wife; Hilary had flushed happily as she acknowledged one smiling bow of greeting after another. The real battery of eyes and glances would come after the concert, she knew, when Konrad intended to join them, and when Craig and his mother might come in. Meanwhile, she had experienced just enough of Konrad's new claim upon time and liberty to find this hour alone with Dora a delight not to be wasted.

"Butterfly," she asked, very low, "you don't mean that you think your marriage was a mistake?"

"Oh, yes. I do!" But Hilary answered, quickly. "Any marriage that I made would have been a mistake!"

"But why do you say that, dear?" Hilary asked, distressed. "Because marriage is a business, Hilary. And I don't know my business." Dora answered, after a pause.

"All life is a business," Hilary

Monty Banks in "Racing Luck," his new Grand-Asher picture, offered, doubtfully, as Dora was still.

"Yes, my dear, and some people never learn it!" But Hilary added, bitterly. "And some, like myself, she went on, in a musing voice, 'learn it too late!'"

Nothing more was said until the symphony which was the first number ended. Then Hilary leaned again upon Dora's chair, and went on, in a loving and protesting voice:

"Too late, Butterfly! When you are not twenty-three!" "There is a sort of bloom about being married, Sis," Dora said, with a new wisdom that surprised Hilary, even through the heartache of listening to the sorrowful little listless voice. "You have it now—some people don't ever lose it. They lose something, I suppose, but the charm is never broken, there has never been a breach, a time of readjustment."

They go from the pleasantness of being engaged to married love, and then—I suppose, other love, love like Craig's mother for his father. She doesn't cry.

"I was too young," But Hilary began again, as Hilary found nothing to say. "I look back at our early days, going all the time, being admired—it was so new to me! When that quieted down I hadn't thought much about what he was; it was more what he had. Sis, it isn't only me! That's what has wrecked my marriage, and so many others. There was nothing else, nothing back of the novelty and excitement. I danced and smoked and gambled and drank—it doesn't sound decent, but it's what we all did! I remember being with Katharine Templeton once, on a house party up in the Adirondacks, and it occurred to me that in one week she broke every one of the Commandments—every one, even 'thou shalt not kill'—if you call suicide murder!—God—and taking his name in vain, and keeping his day holy—what a joke! Coveting your neighbor's goods, and your neighbor's wife, bearing false witness, even stealing, for Katharine does cheat at bridge, and everyone knows it, if she is worth seven million, and right in the very heart of society! Her Patricia is coming out next winter—one can't help wondering what worse things the next crowd will do!"

ture at the Gateway theatre tonight, wears the clothes of an Italian immigrant, Neapolitan dancing costume, evening clothes, a racing driver's suit, etc. Helen Ferguson, his leading woman, is lovely in the garb of Italy and in up-to-date American attire. The picture starts in Italy and shifts to America and ends in a wild auto race that sets one's nerves tingling with excitement. There are some big cafe scenes with wonderful dances and many lovely girls.

The Valentino fans are soon to have their inning. DOBSON PLAYERS
"A Prince There Was" shows but three more times at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre—tonight, Saturday matinee and Saturday night—states Miss Eva Daniels, business manager of the Dobson Players, who are presenting this clever George M. Cohan play to Glendale theatregoers.

The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock nightly and 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

John Voshburgh as the Prince gives a decidedly worthwhile performance and Marie Gray as the Countess, who peels the potatoes and wipes the dishes and sweeps the floor and loves everybody, does some of the best work in the play.

William H. Stephens as Caruthers, the editor, is the typical big American business man. Carroll Nye, who has just completed a thirty-two weeks' engagement with the Wilkes Players at the Majestic theatre, Los Angeles, is fine as Bland, while Richard Ehlers as Shorty, is a scream.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PEACH PIE

Uncle Wiggily, one day, hopped into the dining room, where Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was teaching a cup and saucer how to make a polite bow when they came to the table. The rabbit gentleman carried a basket on one paw.

"My goodness," laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Are you going over to see Mrs. Cluck Cluck, the hen lady, and get some eggs, Uncle Wiggily?"

"What makes you think I am going after eggs?" asked the bunny.

"Well, you have a basket, haven't you?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.

"Yes, but other things than eggs can be put in baskets, my dear Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy," chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "How about a lunch, let us say?"

"Do you want me to put up a lunch for you in that basket?" asked Nurse Jane.

"If you please," spoke the bunny, making a low and polite bow. And, when the cup and saucer saw Mrs. Longears bowing, they saw, right away, how it was done, and then they knew how to do it. "I wish you would put me up a little lunch in the basket, Nurse Jane."

"I shall sit down in this green, mossy, dingy dell and eat my lunch," said Uncle Wiggily. He opened the basket Nurse Jane had packed for him, and soon he was eating a carrot sandwich. Then he ate a bit of turnip cake, and at last he came to the peach pie.

"Nurse Jane certainly makes wonderful peach pie," said the bunny to himself, and he was chewing away, when, all of a sudden, he bit down hard on a stone.

"Ouch!" he cried as he almost cracked a tooth. "Nurse Jane forgot and left a peach pit in her pie. Wow! What a hard stone!" However, Uncle Wiggily didn't swallow it, and, taking the peach pit out of his mouth, he put it on one side—I mean he put the stone to one side—not his mouth.

Uncle Wiggily was just eating the last of the peach pie, and he was politely washing his paws in a nearby spring of water, when, all of a sudden, there was a rustling in the bushes and out popped the Weasel! A Weasel is always after rabbits, when he can get them.

"What have you been doing, Uncle Wiggily?" snapped the Weasel.

"I have been eating peach pie," answered the bunny.

"Is there any left for me?" asked the Weasel.

"I am sorry to say there is no peach pie left for you," politely answered the rabbit.

"Then if I have no peach pie to eat, I shall nibble your ears," snarled the Weasel. He was just going to do this, when Uncle Wiggily thought of the peach stone.

"Here! Take this!" cried the brave rabbit, and he threw the stone at the Weasel. "Pop!" it hit the bad chap in the eye.

"Wowzie, Wow!" howled the Weasel. And away he ran through the woods.

"Hi! Hi!" laughed the bunny rabbit. "It's a good thing Nurse Jane left a stone in her peach pie. It saved my ears from being nibbled."

Then the rabbit gentleman hopped back home, very happy because he had had such a jolly adventure. And the Weasel's eye was sore for a week. But it served him right. And if the rain doesn't splash in through the keyhole and get the umbrella all wet, I shall next tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the chocolate pudding.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor Lulu:—I have so many moles on my arms and face that they are very disfiguring. Then, too, I have one right on the bridge of my nose and it is becoming larger from the rubbing of my glasses on it. Would the removal prove dangerous? I could not afford to see a specialist and must rely on our town doctor. Thank you.—C. G."

The mole on the bridge of the nose that is being constantly irritated is the only one that need concern you, but that certainly should receive attention. The one thing we do know about cancer is that moles and warts that are in positions on the body so that they are irritated by the clothing or in any other way, may become cancerous later in life. Your town doctor would undoubtedly advise you to see a specialist. "Where there's a will, there's a way."

MILK AND FISH—

"Dear Doctor Peters:—Will you kindly tell me if the combination of milk and fish is bad? I never heard of this until coming south. I come from a mountainous country where trout is plentiful and we have always used this combination with no ill effects. Thanking you.—Mrs. C."

You have proven yourself that the combination of milk and fish is not bad. Fish is often served with milk sauces and is delicious that way. Lots of so-called bad combinations are simply superstitions—milk and acid fruits, for instance. Milk is a high protein food and so is fish, and if you had other proteins in your meal, you might have a meal that is too high in this element. However, if your other meals were low in protein, they would automatically balance. The chief idea in planning your meals is to get the elements the system needs in the right proportion.

We have an article on balanced diet which you may have.

SOME REDUCTION—
"Dear Doctor:—Enclosed is a s. a. s. e. and ten cents in stamps for which please send me a pamphlet on how to reduce. It is for a friend."

I have lost 100 pounds in about eight months. I feel fine and look well. Nobody knew me at first but everybody thinks I look very much better. I am delighted. My home town is getting to be a bunch of reducing fans. Please send pamphlets on reducing the abdomen. This is also for a friend.—Mrs. O. H."

Now, isn't that wonderful? One hundred pounds! How much do you weigh, Mrs. H., and how old are you? I won't tell. What was your reducing manner of eating and how much exercise did you take? You certainly deserve a little reward of merit.

One hundred pounds! Just think of it. No wonder you are feeling so much better. When I think of the diseases you are side-stepping and the good work you are doing in converting others, I am happy.

CORSETS—
Mrs. R.—No, it is not harmful to go without a corset. Rather, it is just the reverse. However, those who have been accustomed to wearing one, usually have weak abdominal muscles and until those muscles are strengthened to hold the body firmly, there is very apt to be a fatigue after going without the artificial support. There are special exercises for strengthening the abdominal wall; lying on the floor and raising the body, first to sitting position and then down to the feet, and the reverse of that, raising the feet over the head; bending down to the floor, without bending the knees; twisting the trunk and so forth. If these are done 15 to 25 times a day, beginning two or three times and gradually increasing, they are a wonderful help. For those who are very much overweight, a firm girdle is very advisable until the weight is reduced. Send for our article on the atonic abdominal wall.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and if possible, write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name and address of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. I expect me to send you the information I have offered.

MRS. KATHERINE M. FREY, at top, wants WILDA BENNETT to pay $100,000 for the asserted loss of love on the part of Charles Frey, wealthy New York turfman. Mrs. Frey claims Wilda Bennett, who is an actress, stole her husband.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—"I'll fight to the bitter end." So declares Mrs. Katherine M. Frey, who is suing Wilda Bennett, stage star, for $100,000. She accuses the actress of stealing the affections of Mrs. Frey's husband, Charles, wealthy turfman.

This is a new departure in breach of promise suits. Usually it is the actress who sues. Mrs. Frey's attorney says that Mrs. Bennett met Frey at a race track in July, 1923, and they

Baptist Union

The Women's Union of the Baptist church met at the church yesterday for the first all-day meeting of the year. A portion of the day was spent in sewing for the White Cross, District 1, of which Mrs. Emma Marsh is the chairman, served luncheon at noon, the three long tables being attractively decorated in orange and black, suggestive of the Halloween season. Orange colored flowers were arranged to form the centerpiece on each table. The decorations were made by Miss Maude Moody during the time she has been confined to her home with a broken ankle. Mrs. H. Park Arnold, president of the union, directed the business session, at which reports were heard from the committees. The report of the White Cross committee, of which Mrs. Sloat is chairman, was exceptionally good, as was also the report of the calling committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Wayland Wood. Mrs. Wood reported that 380 calls had been made in the past two months. A short song service opened the program for the afternoon, with the devotional service led by Mrs. M. B. Womacott, Mrs. Arthur Sisley and Mrs. Jennie E. Dossie. The subject for the afternoon was "Our American Indians" and Mrs. W. B. Hampton gave a most interesting talk on the work being done at the Sherman Institute at Riverside.

The first luncheon will be held next week, and the place will be announced later. The money derived from the luncheon will be used for the pipe organ fund for the new church. Light refreshments were served by the hostess, with the assistance of Mrs. Altman, at the close of the meeting. 'BREEZY' ELLIOTT, UNCONSCIOUS 20 HOURS, BETTER

PLAYER HURT IN FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Slight Concussion of Brain Results When Grid Star Varsity Men Collide

Howard "Breezy" Elliott, former star of the Glendale Union High school football team, who was seriously injured in scrimmage at the University of Southern California Wednesday, will probably be removed from the California Lutheran hospital today, according to word from there this morning.

Elliott's condition was reported as much improved this morning, he having fully regained consciousness after lying in a state of coma for nearly twenty hours. Elliott, who captained the Glendale eleven last season, and led the team to a playoff with Long Beach for the grid title of Southern California, was playing with the U. S. C. frosh at the time of the accident. In tackling Hayden Phythian, varsity end, the freshman star was dealt a severe blow on the back of the head when he became entangled in Phythian's legs.

Knocked Unconscious
The blow knocked him unconscious and emergency treatment failed to revive him. He was then removed to the office of Dr. Albert Weston, university physician, but was rushed to the California Lutheran hospital, where he remained unconscious until yesterday morning.

An examination by physicians failed to reveal a fracture, and a slight concussion of the brain was the injury reported by attending surgeons. Elliott enrolled at U. S. C. this fall and carried with him the reputation of being one of the greatest football stars in interscholastic ranks in the state. He has maintained that reputation there and is proving to be a mainstay of the Trojan first year grid team.

Hope to Produce Fuel Of Perfect Substance

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 10.—Production of a "super fuel"—an almost 100 per cent perfect burning substance—from bituminous coal, which will save millions of dollars in freight alone, and which may revolutionize the soft coal industry of the United States, is the object of a $100,000 experiment that is being made here.

Every producer in the soft coal fields of western Pennsylvania—the largest in the world—is watching with keen interest the outcome of the attempt to produce a little ball of perfect carbon—a literal B. T. W. bullet. The method of making this "super fuel" is unique but simple, and was discovered by Walter Trent, an eminent engineer, who holds patents on the process.

SPORT WISDOM

By WALTER CAMP
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Alnozo Stagg, out at Chicago U., is certainly in hard luck so far as ends are concerned. Lampe, who went out Saturday with a broken leg, was one of Stagg's best men. Weiss, another promising candidate, has suffered an injury to his ankle which probably will keep him out a month.

Meanwhile, Stagg is yielding to the prevailing tendency for weight on the flanks and is likely to push Abbott, the 190 pound tackle, out to end. Whether he will find a bigger man to replace the very clever Curley at quarter, in order to get more weight into the interference, is a question.

Harry Adams and McCarthy are doing good work in the backfield, and we will have another opportunity to see whether a sprinter can make good, or whether Charley Paddock was right when he said that football and sprinting do not mix. Brookins, the star hurdler of Iowa, is out for full-back. If any coach can get the speed that these men have and convert it into real football work, he will be well satisfied.

Iowa, by the way, is about the best off of any of the Middle Western teams for veteran material and that backfield, with Captain Parker, Graham, Frye and Fisher as a kicker, looks pretty smooth.

One of the most interesting features of the season in the Middle West has been the number of good punters lost by graduation. Kipke, of Michigan, Workman, of Ohio State, Martineau, of Minnesota, Taft of Wisconsin and Pyott, of Chicago, are all gone—and the football fans will greatly miss their work.

FOR GAME'S SAKE

By LAWRENCE PERRY
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Missouri sprang early into the limelight by defeating Chicago. Its prominence is richly deserved and the Tigers will make a strong bid to maintain it. Anything further in the way of a prediction in this era of football upsets is not warranted, even granting that Missouri is better off as to material than it has been in some years.

To those who are familiar with football affairs in the middle west, however, Indiana's sound trouncing of Depauw—the first time in three years that the Hoosiers have turned this trick—has excited as much interest as the outcome at Chicago.

Aided and abetted by his new assistant Sonny Sundstrom, Indiana's head coach, Bill Ingram, is starting a real system at Indiana. Sad to say they are compelled to attack conditions which involve a small army of drug-store cowboys, cake-eaters and co-eds who, by the way, have swept many a coach into the discard at Bloomington before the days of Ingram and Sundstrom.

Which will win this time? Time alone will tell.

Marquette started secret practice for the Navy game last Sunday to make up for practice lost in traveling to Annapolis this week. The Irish Badgers, who have not lost a game in two years, left for Annapolis Wednesday and if the Middies have not been forewarned they may be in for a surprising afternoon.

Luns and Lane, the big tackles and Fahay, a regular end, are just at present, however, on the injured list and upon their recovery depends much so far as the Milwaukeeans are concerned.

The sound trouncing which the Infantry School (Fort Benning) eleven administered to Oglethorpe on Saturday is the story of a post outfit filled with former West Point and college stars meeting a team of younger undergraduates. Granted time for practice and good coaching, an army team such as that at the small arms post at Columbus, Ga., has every advantage over a collegiate team.

Of the big three teams, Princeton looked better than either Harvard or Yale in the season's opening games. Yale has, apparently, a better chance than Harvard, of rounding into shape shortly. Harvard has a serious line problem, with no solution yet in sight.

ANGELS CLIMB UP TO SECOND PLACE

Beat Portland 6-5, Now Tied With Seattle; Vernon Is Trimmed by Bees

By THREE STRIKES
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—While the Salt Lake Bees were easily trimming the Tigers here yesterday to the frightful tune of 12 to 5, our Angels were fighting tooth and nail at Portland for a victory that ties them for second place.

Whether or not the $1000 bonus to be given the Mormons by William Lane, owner of the Salt Lake club, if his men take the Oakland and Vernon series, was the incentive for the Bees' furious buzzing, is a matter of conjecture, but they hammered away in great style. As evidenced by the score, the game was featured by a Mormon parade around the usual course and across the platter. The only kick Vernon furnished during the walk-away was putting over their five tallies in the ninth after being blanked by a pair of Bees hurlers for eight innings. Ken Penner lasted only three frames for the locals, giving way to Ludolph, who in turn was replaced by Swanson.

Angels Climb Up
Getting back to our Angels (we're calling them "ours" now) they come in for a great deal of credit, considering they were a hopeless crew for the first three months of the season. Today they are just four and one-half games from the top of the ladder. Portland has been easy meat for the Seraphs all season and six games of the series remain to be played.

In the meantime San Francisco and Seattle are hacking at each other and probably neither team will gain much during their series, which gives the Angels a good chance to creep up. With Vernon showing a terrible brand of ball this week, the Angels should easily take their last series of the season from the Tigers. And that's that. And the Angels are on their way upwards.

Oakland Beaten
The Solons stepped on Oakland in yesterday's game 15 to 5. The Angels overcame a two run lead and put up a desperate fight to triumph over the Portland Beavers yesterday 6 to 5.

A drizzling rain postponed the Seattle-San Francisco game.

HARVARD ADOPTS NEW GRID STUNT

Crimson Develops Work for Quarterback In Play On Offensive

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Harvard is going to drop the non-running quarterback idea that has prevailed at Cambridge since 1915. The scheme now is to develop a quarterback who can do something on the offensive.

In the days when Harvard's hidden plays were new and strange the Crimson got along very nicely with a strategic, thimble-rigging quarterback who carried the ball only upon the rarest of occasions. But in the past two or three years the typical Harvard ball juggling has lost its effectiveness. The Crimson has felt the handicap of having only three men carry the ball instead of the four used by opposing teams.

Princeton's silent signal system as it is being developed this season may well prove revolutionary. It is not a new idea, this huddle scheme, but no team has gone in for it as seriously and in as detailed a manner as the Tigers have been doing this season.

Play in Detail
As it works out, the defending team lines up and the Tigers form in a compact group five or ten yards away. Captain Stout calls the play and the players then skip into their positions, the ball being snapped immediately they are set.

The play's chief virtue lies in relieving the players of the duty of interpreting signals. Not all grid players are quick at signals and, as a consequence, there is not always a perfect co-ordination in launching a play. When eleven men of a team are equally facile in getting the signal, the mental effort involved in getting it must be subtracted from the total of psychological concentration involved in putting over the play.

As for the time occupied in this huddle idea, the first impression is that it requires less time to call signals, but, as the game progresses and one grows accustomed to the novelty of the arrangement the sense of wasted time is lost.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Louis Firpo has passed up the Madison Square Garden gymnasium as a place to train. Too much bad luck has befallen him. So now he has gone out to the town where he laid the foundation of his fame, Newark.

The Wild Bull began yesterday to fit himself for the Fulton bout which will be held on November 7 or 15 and there is a possibility he may try out before this against some easy rival.

Johnny Wilson, having defeated Jock Malone and in turn been defeated by him, will tackle Frank Moody, the British middleweight in Boston on Friday night.

The first Jock Malone-Wilson battle in Boston was attended by rather an amusing incident which they are telling along the Great White Way.

It seems that Malone, who is full of tricks, was struck rather a low blow by Wilson. It was not so low as to cause the referee to call a foul. But Jock tried to induce him to do so by clamping his hands around his groin and howling bloody murder.

Johnny, far from sympathizing or waiting for the referee to argue, sailed into Malone before he could get his hands up and walloped him so badly that in the next round Jock was done for. Johnny, in other words, saw through the stall, the Minnesotan was trying to pull.

ELEVENS READY FOR NEXT TRIAL

Pigskin Stars of Country's Big Universities Set For Real Test

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Brown-Chicago game at Chicago tomorrow will afford an opportunity to see whether Coach Stagg has been able to do anything with his team since its defeat by Missouri last Saturday. He will have to show everything he has against Robinson or suffer defeat, which would tend to sap the morale of the team for the conference games.

On the other hand, Brown, if it should gain a victory, will come back east for its important games with the big fellows thoroughly seasoned and likely to be very dangerous. Brown's center, Eckstein, will bear watching.

The Army-Detroit game at West Point will give a good deal more of a line on the quality of McEwan's men than many persons think. Detroit is a team with very powerful individuals, and some of the big fellows on the line will test out West Point for any weaknesses. The Army is regarded as stronger than last year, and if both Wilson and Hewitt are in the backfield, the team will be increasingly dangerous.

Eastern Teams Try Out
The Columbia-Wesleyan game will mark the progress of Coach Haughton's work and show whether the promise of greater cohesion, displayed a week ago, may be expected to continue.

Penn looks better than last year and the game with Swarthmore will tell the story. Douglas, the star in Lou Young's backfield, bears watching.

Pittsburgh will try to make up for a defeat last week by beating West Virginia, but Spear's team appears to be a hard one to down. Syracuse should come through with a victory over William and Mary, though the opposition promises to be better than expected.

Marquette has a line that should give the Navy some trouble, and Folwell will be lucky if he gets his team through safely without injury.

The Big Three—Yale, Harvard, Princeton—should have fairly easy sailing against Georgia, Middleburg and Lehigh.

FOOTBALL GAME FOR TOMORROW

Arizona Wildcats Will Play Trojans; Sagehens Meet Bears at Berkeley

The Arizona Wildcats will endeavor to tame the Trojans at the Coliseum in Los Angeles. It will be the Trojans' final appearance at home before embarking on the Pacific coast conference schedule, which they open at Portland with the Oregon Aggies.

While the Arizona players are meeting the University of Southern California warriors, the Sagehens will journey to Berkeley to play the Bears in the California Memorial stadium. The California frosh squad will clash with the Modesto Junior college team in the stadium before the main event is staged.

Loyola Lions will meet the Santa Barbara State college eleven tomorrow at Loyola college. It will be the third game of the season for the Lions. The Santa Clara freshmen tackle the Berkeley field high school team, last year's interscholastic champions, at Berkeley tomorrow.

Oxy at Redlands
Occidental will open the conference season at Redlands against the Baptists tomorrow. The Redlands' frosh team will meet the Riverside Junior college team in the curtain-raiser. Caltek and Whittier will provide a large crowd of spectators with plenty of thrills, for a stiff battle is expected when those two teams clash.

The Bay league opens today with Huntington Park at San Pedro, Compton at Venice, Santa Monica at Redondo and Inglewood at Gardena. All are high school teams. Other minor games today are: Ventura at Moorpark, Redlands at South Pasadena, Pasadena Millin lightweights at Pasadena Millin academy, Colton at Riverside, Manual Art and Southern Branch frosh at Southern Branch, Caltek frosh at Franklin, and Los Angeles High seconds at Monrovia.

FIGHT RESULTS

AT NEW YORK—Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh, won from Johnny Darcy, New York, by a technical knockout in the sixth round; Harry Duer, New York, knocked out Fred Locke, second round.

Frequent summer storms and a shelterless coast line discourage the use of boats as pleasure craft in Denmark.

DYNAMITERS TO SANTA BARBARA

Locals to Play Last Practice Game Before Central Loop Is Started

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.
Journeying to Santa Barbara for their last practice game before the beginning of the regular season the Glendale High Dynamiters take on the Channel City eleven Saturday at 2:30 o'clock on Pershing field.

Coach Meehan of Santa Barbara is reputed to have a strong aggregation this season and is out for the scalps of the locals. Last year the Santa Barbara team came down to Glendale before the opening of the regular season and was wiped up by the Dynamiters, 68-0.

Although they expect to win, the home boys are not overconfident. Harry Fische, who starred for the Dynamiters in the Glendale-Hollywood game on Broadway field last Friday, will not make the trip with the rest of the team. His hip has been bothering him lately and Coach Hayhurst wants to make sure of having Fische for the opening game in the Central league with Citrus Union High school Friday, October 17.

De Parc at End
The absence of Fische will necessitate Clayton Phillips' moving over to his regular position at right tackle and Ellsworth De Parc's playing right end. De Parc played his first football game against the Trojan Frosh at the Coliseum two weeks ago and performed like a veteran. Hayhurst believes he has found a very dependable man in De Parc. The remainder of the line will probably start the game as against Hollywood, namely, Dixon Farron at right tackle; Cecil Zaun, center; Marion Morrison, left guard; Lewis Dotson, left tackle, and Leslie Lavelle, left end.

Frenchy will probably call the signals with Elmer Tuff and Dick Ryan at halves and Carl Denney at full. Muff was handicapped in the Hollywood game with a bad leg but his injury has practically healed and he will be on the job Saturday.

Citrus High Lights Win With Drop Kick

The capable and trusty toe of Quarterback Jones yesterday broke up a 6 to 6 deadlock between Citrus high school lightweights and the Whittier high lightweights, giving the Glendora team a 12 to 6 victory. Twice Jones booted perfect drop kicks from the thirty yard line. The touchdown came as the result of a long forward pass, Jones to Stair. Whittier scored their lone touchdown on a delayed buck.

'Ping' Bodie to Play With Glendale Team

With "Ping" Bodie, fifteen years a star in the big leagues, signed to play the outfield, the Glendale White Sox line up has almost been completed for the six-club Southern California Winter league. Bodie arrived in town this week from Des Moines where he had a great season, hitting for an average of .364.

Hollywood Merchants And Wildcats to Mix

Playing for the championship of Hollywood, Tom Mix's Wildcats and Floyd Carleton's Hollywood Merchants clash Sunday at Allan Hancock Park. The Merchants and Wildcats are both Hollywood teams, but have never met. Tom Mix, motion picture star, will be on first base, with Tom Gallery, another film player, on second. George L. Eastman, millionaire Hollywood sportsman, will be in Carleton's lineup.

P.E. Crew, Pasadena to Play In Benefit Game

A large fund is expected to be raised Sunday afternoon when Lorin Ury's Pasadena Merchants and the Pacific Electric ball clubs tangle in a benefit game at Tournament Park. The proceeds of which will go to Bill Haas, popular member of the Pasadena club who is seriously ill. "Lefty" Dill will hurl for the street car men with Ed Duffey pitching for the Crown City nine.

GRAY NOTES BIG STRIDES BY CITY

Sees More Changes In Weeks Here Than In
Years In N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil V. Gray of 409 East California street returned recently from a ten weeks' trip to New York, his first visit to his boyhood home in eighteen years. Mr. Gray reported that he noted more changes in Glendale during his absence than he had noted in New York over a period of eighteen years.

Leaving Glendale July 13, Mr. and Mrs. Gray went to San Francisco and from there to Seattle, Wash., Victoria and Vancouver. Stops were made in the Canadian Rockies and also at Niagara Falls, Montreal, Thousand Islands and the Adirondacks.

Visit with Parents
At Utica, N. Y., they visited with Mr. Gray's parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Gray, the former a Methodist minister. Rev. Gray was a schoolmate of John Barrows, they having attended school at Cooperstown, N. Y., and Rev. Gray now has in his possession a book of a school debating society with the signature of John Barrows.

Mr. Gray visited with his sister, Miss Ruth E. Gray, who is a teacher at New Rochelle, N. Y., and while in the east he and his wife attended reunions of relatives of Mr. Gray's mother and of his father's. They also attended a reunion of old school friends at Fairfield, N. Y., at which 200 were present.

Their return trip included a visit to New York city and the Grand Canyon.

tain time), its great body glinting in the rising sun. The entire population of the city was out, thousands having waited for its appearance the greater part of the night. Every available noise-making apparatus was called into play in a mighty din which must have carried up to the level in which the ship was flying.

The dirigible did not pause in its flight but continued toward the California line, following the air trail of the round-the-world flyers over the right of way of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Sails Over Arizona on Journey to Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Winging its way to the Pacific coast on schedule time and apparently making excellent speed, the dirigible Shenandoah early today was passing over Arizona, according to reports received by the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., whose railway line the big airship is following.

The Shenandoah passed over Benson at 5:20 a. m. Previously Bowie had sighted it at 3:09; Wilcox at 3:50, and Dragoon at 4:43 o'clock.

The Shenandoah apparently had reduced its speed after it passed over Tucson, Ariz. The railroad observers sighted it there at 6:35 a. m. At 6:50 it passed over Rialto and 7:09 (mountain time) was sighted by Red Rock, Ariz. Red Rock is approximately twenty-two miles west of Tucson.

The Shenandoah was reported passing over Estrella, Ariz., at 8:37 a. m. (mountain time).

Cameraman's Wife Appeals
To Court to Get Mate
Out of Singapore

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—One of the most unusual stories ever written into civil actions of the Los Angeles county superior court was recited in a complaint filed today by Lenwood Abbott and his wife, Hazel, for salary alleged due from W. F. Alder, et al., and the Explorations Syndicate. Only $780 is concerned, but that means a great deal, for Abbott, a film camera man, is stranded in Singapore and needs the money in order to pay his passage home.

According to the complaint, Abbott set forth last March to film the secret recesses of the Thibetan plateau and the Island of Borneo. He first reached the latter place and "shot" the natives before they had opportunity to kill him for cannibal soup. After these experiences he felt a deal of satisfaction in reaching the Straits settlement and receiving the salary due him, but it appears the explorations concern was capitalized on numerous notes, and for weeks their field representatives waited in vain.

Thibet will go unfilmed and Abbott will return to his home here as soon as his wife can collect the salary alleged due him, according to the complaint.

GOVERNOR IS PROUD OF HIGHWAYS

Work Being Accomplished by Commission Praised by State Executive

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—Governor Friend W. Richardson of California is proud of the work being accomplished by the California Highway commission. He took occasion to congratulate its members at a luncheon in the Los Angeles Athletic club, which was attended by Chairman Harvey Toy, N. T. Edwards and Louis Everding of the commission, Chief Engineer R. M. Morton and Secretary W. P. Mixon.

"I have heard many compliments regarding the commission's work, and very little criticism," the governor told his guests, and later he related to the writer some of the good things being done for the benefit of the motorist.

Aiding Motorists
"On the Ridge route the highway crews are cutting back the turns to give the automobile driver 'daylight,' instead of blind walls around which other cars come head on.

"Many of the southern highways are being widened and reconstructed, and they are doing good jobs, too. Engineer Morton is doing mighty fine work, in my estimation, and the commission is composed of business men who have the highways at heart, rather than their political jobs."

And certainly it seemed so in the highway commission's offices on the eleventh floor of the Pacific Finance building here, where a session was in progress. It was announced that bids were being sought for the paving of a section of state highway between Redlands and Beaumont in Riverside county, which is to be seven miles in length. It will be six inches thick, twenty feet wide, and have nine-inch shoulders. According to Engineer Morton, bids will be opened in Sacramento, November 3.

Bridge Contract Let
The commission also let a contract for a reinforced concrete bridge across Sycamore creek on the main coast highway in San Diego county, H. H. Peterson of San Diego being the successful bidder, at $266,500.

Following a conference with Ventura boulevard boosters from the vicinity of Girard the commission agreed that it would pave ten feet of dirt highway to be added to the present twenty-foot highway next year if the necessary legal details can be worked out.

H. A. Lake of Garden Grove, Orange county, also was given assurances that if local co-operation could be obtained the highway commission would widen the San Diego highway through his community out of the gas tax fund.

Increased Farm Prices Improve All Business

ST. PAUL, Oct. 10.—Stiffening prices on farm products, notably hogs, wheat and rye, have greatly improved the general business situation here. Nearly 100 banks which had been closed in this federal reserve district have reopened and the payments of current and delinquent interest on farm loans is being maintained. Wholesale buying in the last week has been about 12 per cent higher than a year ago and wholesalers say hand to mouth buying is giving way to normal placement of orders. The larger railroads are hauling a record quantity of grain.

Steel Mill Operations Maintaining Standard

PITTSBURG, Oct. 10.—Despite what has been said in regard to the difficulty steel mills are having in effecting sales, mill operations have been fully maintained and reports of dullness seem to have been somewhat overdrawn. Sales have been preceded by more negotiations, however, and prices in some districts have not been rigidly defined.

Bargains Available at Army & Navy Store

Many wonderful bargains are yet available at the Original Army & Navy store, 201 South Brand boulevard, in their final close-out sale, which is now in progress, according to S. D. Goldsmith, proprietor. When the stock is sold this store will close its doors, he says.

Seasonable merchandise of almost every kind is included, there are blankets, flannel and all-wool shirts, underwear, high grade dress shirts and shoes, as well as army coats and camp supplies and necessities.

Sale prices that mean profit has been forgotten, prevail throughout the store, so that a real opportunity to make one dollar do the work of two is offered the thrifty buyer, asserts Mr. Goldsmith.

Individual Service—Nation-Wide Facilities

TELEPHONE service is essentially an individual service. Each subscriber must be dealt with as an individual. His telephone instrument is a piece of individual, personal equipment. But to coordinate this instrument with a nation-wide system requires supplementary facilities in wholesale quantities.

In itself, this instrument represents only a relatively small investment. Its proportionate share, however, in the total investment in wire, poles, switchboards, buildings and other plant required to make Bell System service universal in scope is an hundred times its own value.

This investment per instrument is steadily increasing as more and more equipment, constantly growing more complex, is put into service at the present high prices of labor and materials.

Centralized manufacture and years of continuous research have enabled the Bell System in some measure to meet this rising tide of plant investment. The result is that its service remains unrivalled not only in efficiency and in extent but in economy from the standpoint of cost to the subscriber.
